

Quiz for Week #1

What's Your Love Forecast?

1. To you, summer means
  - A. group SAT tutorials, big tips at Burger Haven and weekend white-water rafting excursions.
  - B. Mega concert tours, serious eye candy at the ice cream parlor and quality time with your best friends.
  - C. Prince Charmings from other schools who glide into shore on neon body boards and whisk you off your beach towel.

2. On your first day of work at the Pitch 'n' Putt, you
  - A. pop Spanish conversation tapes in your Walkman so you can do something constructive on your breaks.
  - B. Find a friendly coworker so there's someone to eat lunch with.
  - C. Remind yourself that your gorgeous manager is off limits - it's only your first day, after all. (Next week he's fair game.)

3. Your best friend invites you to a party at her lake house. You're psyched, but you'll need to
  - A. first finish the painting you're working on for tomorrow's art class and find a baby-sitter for your little brother.
  - B. Bring along a camp friend who's visiting for a few days.
  - C. Pick up a glow-in-the-dark bikini - her adorable cousin has already seen your drab daytime suits.

4. When your English professor is not reading over your shoulder, your big stress reliever this semester will be to
  - A. cuddle up in your backyard hammock with The Legacy of Luna, about the woman who lived in a redwood tree.
  - B. Grab a poolside chair at the swim club, lie back and devour Divine Secrets of the Ya-Ya Sisterhood.
  - C. Bring Sunset in St. Tropez, Danielle Steel's latest page-turner, to the park and fantasize about the cute shirtless guys playing tackle football nearby.

5. Hitting the beach with your buddies is all about
  - A. jogging along the shore, calculating your summer budget and arguing about Beyonce's acting in Goldmember.
  - B. Sunbathing while listening to Dave Matthews and then joining in a pickup game of ultimate frisbee.
  - C. Camping out by the volleyball court so you can scope out the seniors from your rival college.

6. You just broke up with your boyfriend, which is just as well because
  - A. you need time for cross-country training, animal-hospital volunteer work and tennis lessons at the Y.

- B. now you can go on that hiking trip with your friends without worrying about whether or not he's having a good time.
  - C. College is the time to be single - there'll be plenty of opportunities to strike a new match with someone.
7. On Labor Day weekend: Your one thought is
- A. you still haven't checked out the dolphin show at the aquarium or helped dad with his landscaping project.
  - B. Selling lemonade and delivering papers sure was a great way to meet the neighbors - like the new boy up the block.
  - C. You'd sooner sever all ties, drop out of school and move time zones than face college knowing you didn't kiss even one boy all summer.

Scoring:

Count 1 point for a's

2 points for b's

3 points for c's

Scores for Week #1

Hundred Percent Chance of Love (17-21 points)

You've cleared your calendar for romance and will do anything to find hot prospects. You're not only hoping to find a sweet guy, you're banking on it. But remember that you can just as easily meet boys volunteering as a hospital candy striper or in class as you can setting up residence at the Frat house. Expand your horizons by concentrating on moneymaking opportunities or feel-good tasks (like cleaning up roadside trash for the community), and let love find you.

A Mix of Love, Friends and Fun (12-16 points)

Our prediction: You'll most likely find love when you least expect it. With schoolwork out of the way and starry nights beckoning you're prepared to heed the call. Spending your days at the local pool and working the evening shift at Scoops is a good way to quench your thirst for cash and quality girl-bonding time without removing yourself from the social scene. And should a cute guy wander into your warm-weather world, you surely won't send him away. Stick to the stuff you and your buddies love, whether it's biking or hanging on the beach. You'll have plenty of memories - and maybe make a few male friends - to tide you over till next year.

HHH: Hectic, Harried and Happy (7-11 points)

There's so much you want to do this season that the idea of fitting a guy into your happily hectic schedule hasn't crossed your mind. But if you don't slow down a bit, your forecast might be gloomy. Between the softball league, volunteer work at the old-age home, and jobs at a burger joint and a special-needs day camp, you rely on mellow evenings to de-stress. Kudos to you for following through on the productive plans you've made, but don't close yourself off to people vying for your social time. Capitalize on the homework-free season and attend at least some of the soirées you're invited to. New relationships are worth the effort - whether or not they have love potential.
